

A Woman's Journey Through Africa: Vintage Departures

In 1926, at the age of 23, Elizabeth Robinson embarked on a solo journey through Africa. She traveled by train, car, and camel, and visited some of the most remote and dangerous places on the continent. Her journey was documented in her book, "White Shadows in a Black Land," which became a bestseller and inspired countless others to explore Africa.

Looking for Lovedu: A Woman's Journey Through Africa (Vintage Departures) by Rick Partlow

★★★★☆ 4.2 out of 5

Language : English
File size : 893 KB
Text-to-Speech : Enabled
Screen Reader : Supported
Enhanced typesetting : Enabled
Word Wise : Enabled
Print length : 292 pages

Robinson was born in England in 1903. She was the daughter of a wealthy family, and she grew up with a love of adventure. In her early twenties, she worked as a journalist in London. But she soon grew restless and decided to travel the world.

In 1926, Robinson set off on her journey to Africa. She traveled by ship to Cape Town, South Africa. From there, she traveled by train to Victoria Falls.

She then traveled by car to the Belgian Congo. And finally, she traveled by camel to the Sahara Desert.

Robinson's journey was full of adventure and danger. She was arrested by the police in South Africa. She was chased by lions in the Congo. And she was nearly killed by a sandstorm in the Sahara Desert.

But Robinson never gave up. She was determined to see all of Africa. And she eventually reached her goal. In 1928, she returned to England a changed woman. She had learned a great deal about herself and about the world. And she had inspired countless others to explore Africa.

Robinson's Legacy

Robinson's journey was a pioneering achievement. She was one of the first women to travel solo through Africa. And her book, "White Shadows in a Black Land," became a classic of travel literature.

Robinson's legacy continues to inspire women today. She is a role model for women who are interested in adventure and exploration. And her book is a reminder that anything is possible if you set your mind to it.

Additional Resources

- The Elizabeth Robinson Foundation
- White Shadows in a Black Land on Amazon

Looking for Lovedu: A Woman's Journey Through Africa (Vintage Departures) by Rick Partlow

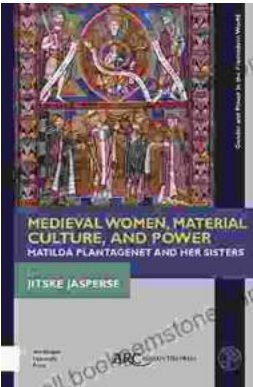

★★★★☆ 4.2 out of 5

Language : English

File size : 893 KB

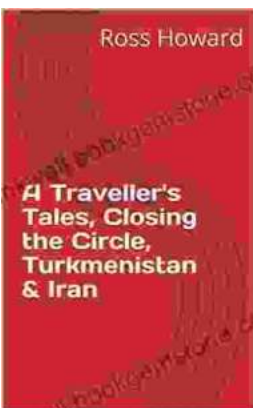

Text-to-Speech : Enabled
Screen Reader : Supported
Enhanced typesetting : Enabled
Word Wise : Enabled
Print length : 292 pages

Matilda Plantagenet and Her Sisters: Gender and Power in the Premodern World

The lives of Matilda Plantagenet and her sisters offer a fascinating glimpse into the complex world of gender and power in the premodern world. As the daughters of one of the...

Traveller Tales: Closing the Circle in Turkmenistan and Iran

In the summer of 2022, I embarked on a life-changing journey through two of Central Asia's most enigmatic countries: Turkmenistan...