From Humble Beginnings to Cartographic Stardom

Blando's journey into the world of fantasy mapmaking began in the small town of Seymour, Connecticut. As a young boy, he spent countless hours scribbling maps on napkins and notebook paper, creating intricate realms that were both familiar and fantastical.

As he grew older, his passion for cartography only intensified. He studied art and design at the University of Bridgeport, honing his skills and developing his unique artistic vision.

A Pioneer of Digital Mapmaking

In the early 2000s, Blando embraced the burgeoning field of digital mapmaking, becoming one of the first artists to master the art of creating stunning maps using software such as Photoshop and Illustrator.

His innovative techniques and unparalleled attention to detail quickly gained recognition within the role-playing game community. In 2009, he was commissioned by Wizards of the Coast to create the map for the iconic fantasy tabletop game Dungeons & Dragons, a testament to his exceptional talent and the power of his imagination.

Unveiling the Secrets of Mapmaking

In addition to his prolific mapmaking endeavors, Blando is also an accomplished author and teacher. His book, "Fantasy Mapmaking: A Guide to Drawing Imaginative Maps," has become a cornerstone for aspiring mapmakers, providing a comprehensive guide to the theory and techniques behind the craft.

Blando's online courses and workshops offer aspiring mapmakers the opportunity to learn directly from the master himself, gaining invaluable insights into the creative process and the technical aspects of mapmaking.
