1. The Museum of Bad Art (MOBA), Boston, Massachusetts

MOBA is home to a collection of over 600 pieces of truly awful art. From paintings to sculptures to pottery, every piece in the museum is a masterpiece of bad taste. Visitors can enjoy such works as "Lucy in the Field with Flowers," a painting of a woman with a horse's head, and "The Bowling Ball," a sculpture of a bowling ball with a human face. MOBA is a must-see for any fan of bad art or anyone who just wants a good laugh.

2. The Upside Down House, Gatlinburg, Tennessee

As the name suggests, the Upside Down House is a house that has been turned upside down. Visitors can walk on the ceiling, sleep in the upside-down bedroom, and even use the upside-down bathroom. The house is a popular tourist attraction, and it's a great place to take some funny photos.

3. The Gravity Defying House, Pigeon Forge, Tennessee

The Gravity Defying House is a house that defies the laws of gravity. Visitors can walk up walls, stand on the ceiling, and even defy gravity on the upside-down staircase. The house is a popular tourist attraction, and it's a great place to experience some gravity-defying fun.

4. The World's Smallest Museum, Fairhope, Alabama

The World's Smallest Museum is located in a former outhouse. The museum is home to a collection of over 1,000 items, including a shrunken head, a two-headed turtle, and a world's smallest Bible. The museum is a popular tourist attraction, and it's a great place to see some of the world's most unusual items.

5. The Museum of Questionable Medical Devices, Minneapolis, Minnesota

The Museum of Questionable Medical Devices is home to a collection of over 1,000 medical devices that are either questionable or just plain bizarre. Visitors can see such devices as a machine that claims to cure cancer with electricity, a device that claims to improve eyesight by vibrating the eyes, and a device that claims to cure baldness with magnets. The museum is a popular tourist attraction, and it's a great place to learn about the history of quackery.

6. The International Banana Museum, Mecca, California
