Fey begins her memoir by recounting her childhood in Upper Darby, Pennsylvania. She paints a vivid picture of her upbringing, from her close-knit family to her love of comedy. She also opens up about her struggles with anxiety and self-doubt, which she has faced throughout her life.

After graduating from college, Fey moved to Chicago to pursue her dream of becoming a comedian. She landed a job at the Second City comedy troupe, where she honed her skills and met some of the people who would become her lifelong friends and collaborators.

In 1997, Fey was hired as a writer for Saturday Night Live. She quickly became one of the show's most valuable contributors, writing some of its most memorable sketches. She also created several iconic characters, including Sarah Palin and Liz Lemon.

After leaving Saturday Night Live in 2006, Fey created and starred in the critically acclaimed sitcom 30 Rock. The show was a huge success, winning multiple Emmy Awards and Golden Globe Awards. 30 Rock is known for its sharp writing, memorable characters, and Fey's own hilarious performance as Liz Lemon.

In addition to her work in television, Fey has also written several books, including Bossypants. She has also starred in several films, including Mean Girls and Date Night.

Bossypants is more than just a memoir. It is a celebration of women and a guide to living a life full of laughter. Fey's writing is sharp, witty, and insightful. She offers valuable advice on everything from relationships to career to dealing with haters. Bossypants is a must-read for anyone who loves comedy, Tina Fey, or just a good story.

Quotes from *Bossypants

- "I'm so glad I never had a kid. Not because I don't love kids, but because I would have raised one just like me, and that would have been a disaster for society."
- "I've learned that you can't please everyone, and that's okay. Not everyone is going to like you, and that's okay too. The important thing is to be true to yourself and your own values."
- "Don't be afraid to fail. Everyone fails at some point. The important thing is to learn from your mistakes and move on."
- "Be kind to yourself. Everyone makes mistakes. The important thing is to forgive yourself and move on."

- "Don't let anyone tell you that you can't do something. You can do anything you set your mind to."
